The age-incidence of defects in school children; their changing health status, by C. H. Maxwell and W. P. Brown. J. of School Health. Mar., 1948. 18:3:65-80.

An analysis of the health status of children in New York State (except New York City, Rochester and Buffalo) in which health statistics for 1925-26 is compared with those of 1945-46. The incidence of total defects shows a decrease from 905 to 818 defects per 1000 children examined. Defects from tonsils, nutrition thyroid, etc., decreased, while defects from teeth increased. Dental defects constitute about half of the total defects reported. Professional care for all defects increased from 47% to 64%. The overall death rate for ages 5-19 in 1945 was one-third what it was 20 years ago. Defects showing a decreasing incidence as the child grows older are: Teeth, tonsils, speech and defects of ears other than hearing. Defects becoming more frequent as the child grows older are: Vision, nutrition, heart, hernia and orthopedic defects including defects of feet and posture.

SPEECH CORRECTION--STUDY UNITS AND COURSES

327. Vermont. Vermont Association for the Crippled, Rutland.
Individual lesson plans for home use. Rutland, Vt., The assn., c1948. (81) p. Mimeo. $2.00.
A mimeographed workbook prepared by Harriet M. Dunn, Director, and Patricia M. Beatty, Counselor, of the Speech and Hearing Services of the Vermont Association for the Crippled, 88 Park St., Rutland, Vt.
"Because Vermont is essentially a rural state there exists the problem of providing speech training for children who live in isolated areas or at distances too great to permit regular attendance at speech classes at the Rutland Center of the Vermont Association for the Crippled. These lesson plans have been worked out for the use of a mother, a teacher or any adult who can arrange regular periods of instruction for a child with an articulatory speech disorder. They are designed as individual lessons but can readily be adapted for group work... Although the lessons have been planned for pre-school and elementary school children they may be used also with older children or with adults by stepping up the levels of interest to meet their special needs and abilities."

BULLETIN ON CURRENT LITERATURE

The publications listed in this issue have been received by the library of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults and are available for loan. The library does not stock copies for sale. Prices are listed, when known, so that orders may be addressed directly to the publishers. The publications are listed by author and title under the subject heading by which the item is cataloged and filed in the library. The subject headings in the Bulletin can be identified by being in all-capital letters.

Because the library may have only a limited number of copies of any item listed, and because of the great number of requests frequently received, it is suggested that the resources of local libraries be investigated first. The services of the library are extended to organizations and individuals whose local resources are so limited as to make information otherwise unavailable. It is understood that the borrower agrees to pay shipping charges for sending him the loan material and for returning it to the library.

The National Society for Crippled Children dnd Adults is a nationwide organization with headquarters in Chicago and more than 2,000 member state and local societies for the crippled and handicapped throughout the country. Its many projects and services are directed and supervised by professionally trained specialists. The Society provides services in health, welfare, education, rehabilitation, recreation, and employment to all types of handicapped persons. All services of the Society are established and carried out in a manner to supplement and extend and not to duplicate or compete with the services of any other agency, public or private. The National Society is supported by the annual sale of Easter Seals.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

For the summer months, from June 1 to September 1, 1948, the package library service of the library of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults has been discontinued. The Bulletin on Current Literature will continue to be published, but the titles listed will not be available for loan. The loan service will be resumed September 1.
